Most cable and satellite television providers offer access to live sports streaming. Cord-cutting services like fuboTV and Sling TV also feature a ton of live sports, including college football. Still, websites that stream live sports for free and don't violate copyright law are a little harder to come by. We looked at websites that offer free live sports streams and picked our favorites. Here's what you need to know to access free live sports streams. What to stream? The MLB is currently in its regular season. The site: Watch ESPN The sports you can watch: Football, basketball, baseball, college sports, hockey, golf, tennis, MMA, NASCAR, esports, UFC Fight Nights, and more. Notes: Few streams on WatchESPN.com are completely free. Most require either a valid login from a qualifying cable or satellite subscription or a subscription to ESPN+. ESPN is one of the biggest names in cable sports, and the official WatchESPN website features a ton of live streaming videos. You'll find many major sports, including football, basketball, baseball, and college sports, on ESPN's official site. What you won't find on ESPN.com, however, is every game of every sport. ESPN streams only the games to which it has broadcast rights. Some premium games on WatchESPN.com require your TV provider login credentials, while others require an ESPN+ subscription starting at $9.99 per month. WatchESPN.com also has a variety of content you can watch without logging in or paying for an additional subscription, including news, interviews, and replays. The site: Facebook Watch The sports you can watch: Soccer, cricket, women's basketball, surfing, and a range of unofficial streams covering virtually every sport. Notes: Facebook Watch has a limited number of official sports streams, but Facebook users use the service to stream live sports. Facebook Watch is Facebook's attempt to muscle in on the video streaming market. The social media giant has obtained the rights to stream a number of sports. In addition to official Facebook Watch sports streams, Facebook users can use the service to live stream sports from around the world. Here's how you can find a huge variety of live sports streams on Facebook Watch: Navigate to Facebook Watch and log in to your Facebook account. 2. Select Search videos, type sports, and press Return or Enter on the keyboard. 3. Toggle on Live. You'll see any current sports live streams. These streams are provided by Facebook users, so you may find low-quality and misleading streams. If you're looking for a specific game, search for a team name. MLB sometimes streams select games via its MLB Facebook page, so check back frequently to see what's available. You can also catch select MLB live streams via the MLB YouTube page. The site: Reddit The sports you can watch: Many professional sports, including baseball, football, soccer, basketball, and hockey. Notes: Reddit doesn't host sports streams, but you'll find subreddits dedicated to finding and curating links to live streams for every popular sport. If you can't find a live sports stream through official sources, Reddit is one of the best places to look for unofficial streams. Since Reddit is a site that allows users to create communities, called subreddits, you'll find areas dedicated to about any sport you can think of. When accessing a site with free sports streaming, be wary of lower-quality streams and intrusive, misleading pop-up ads. Consider using an ad blocker when visiting any unknown site, and always be careful about what you select. Reddit doesn't host live sports streams, but users can post links to streams they find on other sites. Streaming site owners also post their links in the relevant subreddits, where users are typically able to upvote the good streams and downvote the bad streams. While it's possible to find bad streams and dangerous sites on Reddit, the community-driven aspect makes it somewhat safer than choosing random links from a search engine. Reddit is discouraging live sports streaming. For example, the MLB free live streams that used to operate on Reddit have moved to Sportsurge, which also offers live streams of many other sports for free. The site: Stream2Watch The sports you can watch: Football, baseball, soccer, tennis, volleyball, baseball, rugby, and others. Notes: This site features intrusive pop-ups. Stream2Watch is a live sports streaming site that gathers streams from other sites. It features baseball, soccer, basketball, volleyball, and other sports streams. It's a fairly comprehensive site, and there's a good chance you'll find a good game or match. Like many sites that embed streams from external sources, you may run into intrusive and misleading pop-up ads on Stream2Watch. Running a good ad blocker helps keep you safe. Still, you may see ads overlaid on some videos. The best solution is to close each ad and immediately select Back on the browser if you're sent to another page. The site: SportRAR.TV The sports you can watch: Soccer, hockey, tennis, basketball, baseball, golf, cycling, and others. Notes: This site features intrusive pop-ups. SportRAR.TV is another sports streaming site that gathers live sports streaming videos from various sources and provides them in an easy-to-navigate interface. You'll find all the major sports on this site, including football, baseball, basketball, hockey, tennis, and golf. When you select a game you want to watch on SportRAR.TV, a new window launches with the game video. If the game doesn't play, look for a link that says More links from this match. If there are additional video sources, this link takes you to other options. Some of the videos found on SportRAR.TV include intrusive pop-up ads, which may appear even if you have an ad blocker installed. The site: Bosscast The sports you can watch: Baseball, football, basketball, tennis, soccer, and others. Notes: This site features intrusive pop-ups. Bosscast is another site that features live sports streams from various sources. The coverage is pretty good, so you can usually expect to find the stream you're looking for. Bosscast sometimes uses Flash for some of its streams. With the discontinuation of Flash at the end of 2020, some Bosscast streams will stop working. The site: Cricfree The sports you can watch: Baseball, football, soccer, tennis, rugby, golf, motorsports, cricket, and more. Notes: This site features intrusive pop-ups. Cricfree is a sports streaming site that specializes in cricket. However, it also has streams from other sports like baseball, football, and soccer. It's another site that provides embedded videos that are hosted elsewhere, so you need to be on the lookout for misleading and intrusive pop-up ads even if you have an ad blocker installed.
