Columbia icefield hotels

If you're are planning a trip to Jasper, chances are you're also planning on seeing the wider range of the Canadian Rockies in Alberta. For most vacations, this means a drive from Jasper down to Lake Louise and Banff, visiting the Columbia Icefields along the way. The Columbia Icefields in Jasper National Park. Now, this drive can be done in one day, but why rush it? Jasper hotels and lodging always put you in the most beautiful settings the Rockies have to offer, and the Columbia Icefields are no exception. Now, there isn't a whole heck of a lot when it comes to lodging between Lake Louise and Jasper, but there is The Crossing resort. You'll find it at the Saskatchewan River Crossing, in the heart of the Icefields Parkway and the Canadian Rockies. The motel was originally built by George Brewster in 1948. The building has managed to hold onto the raw charm that attracted people to places like Jasper from the start. The Columbia Icefields is a great place to stop for a visit on a drive between Banff and Jasper. And though it retains a rustic feel, and it's virtually in the middle of nowhere, The Crossing has top-notch accommodations, and can serve fairly large parties. The Crossing has been updated several times over the years and it now has 66 motel rooms along with a 250 seat dining room, 125 seat cafeteria, 70 seat pub and a 3000 square foot gift shop. Bas As it is located in the middle of one of the scenic highways in the world and between two of the biggest and most touristy towns in the Canadian Rockies, the The Crossing can make a really good stopping off point that allows you to really get the most out of this drive. Considering its unique location, the prices are extremely affordable, especially when it's not busy season. The mountain view rooms feature a prominent view of Mount Murchison and Mount Sarbach. Both mountains were named after the first Europeans to reach the respective summits. If you are not under much of a time restraint while in Jasper, Lake Louise and the Rockies, stop in at the Crossing Motel and really feel like you are far from the maddening crowd. If you are doing a tour of the Canadian Rockies, it is highly likely that you are planning to visit both Jasper and Lake Louise which means that you will have the pleasure of travelling along one of the world's most scenic highways, the Icefields Parkway (Highway 93 N). The distance from Jasper to Lake Louise is 233 km, which means that you could theoretically make the journey in around 3 to 3.5 hours, however there are so many places to stop your car and take in the magnificent scenery that it is best to allow most of the day to soak in the natural beauty of the dazzling glaciers, mountain peaks, and pristine lakes and rivers. A quick glance at the Lake Louise hotel map will show you that there are several places to stay in Lake Louise once you have finished your scenic drive, however some people may wish to stay overnight at one of the Icefields Parkway hotels, perhaps to break up the journey or simply to spend more time enjoying this remarkable corner of both Jasper and Banff National Parks. While there is some cabin accommodation located on Highway 93 within a few km of downtown Jasper, the first Icefields Parkway hotel found a significant distance from any town is Sunwapta Falls Resort, which offers cabin style accommodation from May to October in a stunning wilderness setting. 53 km south of Jasper. Further south, located at the Icefield Centre 103 km from Jasper, the Glacier View Inn, open mid April to October, offers 32 guest rooms and is convenient for the Columbia Icefield Glacier Adventure one of the main attractions along the Icefields Parkway. At Saskatchewan River Crossing, you can find motel style lodging from early April to October at the Crossing Resort, 153 km south of Jasper, where you will also find services such as a gas station, dining room, gift shop and pub. If you are looking for a historic hotel on the Icefields Parkway with a stunning lakeside location and glacier views, Num Ti Jah Lodge should fit the bill nicely, around 40 km north of Lake Louise (approx 190 km south of Jasper), open May to October. The Icefields Parkway is open year round, however during the winter months the road is usually covered with snow and ice and winter driving experience is recommended. After periods of heavy snow, the road may be closed, sometimes for several days, so it is always best to check the road conditions before leaving Jasper. Services are limited on Highway 93 and it is recommended to have a full tank of gas before starting your trip!
