Here is an excerpt from VIN (Veterinary Information Network): The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has received 153 complaints during the past 16 months about illness in dogs that have eaten chicken jerky treats and continues to take reports "at a steady clip," an agency spokeswoman said Friday. Dry dog food also costs less per serving and can be left in a pet's feeding dish all day, unlike canned. Dogs with dental problems may benefit from specially formulated dry food made for dental health, which can help decrease periodontal disease by massaging the teeth and gums. Canned food contains 68% to 78% water. Although the actual duration of a pregnancy from fertilisation in the bitch is around 61 days ± 48 hours the information available to the veterinary surgeon can be very uncertain. Multiple matings and long sperm survival in the reproductive tract (up to 7 days) can make it very difficult to know how many days the bitch is pregnant. Browse Our Courses and Programs.
