What began as an animated show tailored for young viewers quickly morphed into a cultural phenomenon that managed to attract a dedicated audience of all ages. Adventure Time follows Finn the Human and his adopted brother Jake the Dog on their adventures in the mystical Land of Ooo. The first season of the fantasy series premiered on Cartoon Network in the spring of 2010. It garnered positive reviews and a loyal fanbase, making the now iconic animated series a ratings darling for the network and setting the stage for 10 whole seasons. The show's folio may be extensive, but its entertaining content is well worth catching up on. Here's how to watch Adventure Time online. Created By: Pendleton Ward Cast: Jeremy Shada, John DiMaggio, Hynden Walch, Niki Yang, Tom Kenny, Olivia Olson Number of Seasons: 10 Watch Free on Hulu How to watch Adventure Time online in the U.S. All episodes of Adventure Time are prepped and ready for streaming on Hulu. The animated series is one among many popular titles in the platform's extensive streaming library. For unfettered access to Hulu's library, just sign up for their monthly subscription plan and get a full month free. Once the trial ends, you can cancel for no cost or choose to continue the subscription for just $6 per month. Or you could opt for Hulu's $12 per month subscription plan instead, which boats ad-free streaming of the same content. In either case, all 10 seasons of Adventure Time are readily available for streaming on Hulu. HBO Max also houses all 1o seasons of Adventure Time. Like Hulu, the streaming platform offers a free trial period for users to watch shows like Adventure Time and vet the service for themselves. Sadly, unlike Hulu, HBO Max's free trial period lasts only 7 days as opposed to Hulu's 30. Regardless, HBO Max offers its own impressive streaming library, and its weeklong free trial subscription may just be enough to convince patrons to invest in the $15 per month subscription plan. Plus, if you get hooked on Adventure Time, you're going to need to extend the subscription plan to get through its sizable back-catalog. Although the series premiered its finale in 2018, Cartoon Network has since announced four new upcoming specials. Collectively entitled Adventure Time: Distant Lands, they are set to air exclusively on HBO Max in 2020. So, once your binge or rewatch inevitably comes to an end, you will have brand new content to look forward to in no time. Editors' Recommendations Wondering how to watch The Office online in the U.S. now it has left Netflix? You need to subscribe to Peacock, the new streaming service from NBCUniversal. The first two seasons can be streamed for free. Seasons three through nine require a Peacock Premium subscription, which starts at $4.99 a month one-week free trial is available if you sign up through Digital Trends today. To celebrate the return of The Office to NBC, where it first aired in the U.S., the network has launched a collection of so-called "Superfan Episodes" — extended episodes featuring never-before-seen footage. "Having The Office back in the NBC family opens up access to a lot of extra content that we originally shot," said The Office U.S. creator Greg Daniels in a statement. NBC launched a new channel on Peacock to celebrate the release. Titled The Office Zen, the station broadcasts The Office-like ambient sounds 24 hours a day, seven days a week, described by NBC as "a channel of ambient noise devoted to the sights and sounds of the office for anyone working at home." But for most fans, the episodes are the only background sound they want. Buy Individual Episodes or Entire Seasons ... While an unpopular choice, you have the option to purchase individual episodes and even entire seasons. If you'll be signing up to Peacock exclusively for The Office, we recommend purchasing The Office: The Complete Series on iTunes for $30 and taking advantage of the Peacock free trial to watch the new Superfan Episodes. Do this now and you'll save $15 this year alone. Should you for whatever reason choose to venture down this route, you'll be able to use these purchases to create your very own The Office streaming service (more on that in a bit) by transferring them from iTunes to your Mac/PC for local access. Alternatively, you can stream them through the Apple TV application on any compatible Apple device after purchasing. Alternatively, you can buy The Office DVD set on Amazon for $50. It's $20 more than the digital version on iTunes, but this way you have cold, hard DVDs in your possession. Things get a little tricky here, though, if you want to store them digitally as well as copyright protection prohibits you from burning content stored on DVDs to a computer or a different personal media device. ... and Create Your Own Streaming Service Hear us out. The Office has been known to move around a lot, bouncing from streaming service to streaming service in the U.S. Sure, it's safe to assume it has found its retirement home in Peacock, but who wants to fork out $4.99 a month? We're die-hard fans. You want to watch The Office forever, right? So why not create your own personal streaming service using Plex? This isn't as complicated as it sounds. It's a bit like uploading a file to Dropbox, but in this case you're uploading episodes of The Office to your very own Plex Server, which you can access through Smart TVs, and on Android and iOS, and online. You even have the option to download episodes or entire seasons for offline viewing — something Peacock currently doesn't offer. Editors' Recommendations
